++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Becoming wet and windy.

Today:
Rather cloudy with best of sunny intervals in the south and east. A little rain in north and west, turning heavier and persistent over Northern Ireland and west Scotland later with gales developing here, severe for some coasts.

Tonight:
Heavy rain, with strong winds and coastal gales moving southeastwards, severe gales at times in the far north. Blustery showers arriving later in the far northwest.

Wednesday:
Rain continuing over England and particularly Wales with a drier period over Scotland and Northern Ireland, though rain returning here from the southwest during the day. Windy with coastal gales.

Outlook for Thursday to Saturday:
Unsettled with blustery, heavy showers, these most frequent in the west. More prolonged drier/sunnier interludes in the east. Windy with inland gales possible early on Thursday.
